The Bachelor of Arts in Anthropology is designed to serve the needs of students who do not plan to continue their training beyond the baccalaureate level, as well as those who intend to pursue their graduate study leading to the M.A. or Ph.D., either in anthropology or in another academic discipline.

The program is built around core theory and foundation courses and three course areas described below. The B.A. in Anthropology is designed to provide a thorough grounding in the basic concepts of the discipline. No subfield concentration is required for the baccalaureate degree in anthropology, however, several sequences of courses are recommended for students who want to concentrate in a particular subfield. Students are required to meet with an advisor during their second semester in their third year to discuss the most appropriate course sequence of the remaining elective anthropology classes.

Area 1: Theory and Foundations (3 Units)

ANTH 301	Foundations of Archaeology	3 Units
ANTH 302	Foundations of Human Variation	3 Units
ANTH 420	Indigenous Media and Social Change	3 Units

Area 2: Methods and Practicum (3-6 Units)

ANTH 333	Primate Behavior	3 Units
ANTH 530	Human Osteology Practicum	4 Units
ANTH 531	Fossil Human Practicum	4 Units
ANTH 557	Ethnography of the Inner City	4 Units
ANTH 592	Archaeological Field Methods	4 Units
ANTH 595	Visual Anthropology I	6 Units
ANTH 596	Visual Anthropology II	4 Units
ANTH 651	Ethnographic Field Methods	6 Units
ANTH 652	Anthropological Statistics	4 Units

Electives, Anthropology (9-12 units): Any upper division units course with an ANTH prefix, including those from the two areas that have not been used to fulfill the Area requirements. Students who complete 6 units from Area 2 may reduce elective Anth units to 9.

No more than 6 units can be taken in Internships (695), Independent Study (699) and Teaching Assistantships (685) combined. (Note: Students may only receive credits toward the major for a total of 4 units of 685)

Complementary Studies

All candidates for the Bachelor of Arts degree in Anthropology who declared Fall 2014 and after must complete at least 12 units of complementary studies from courses outside the primary prefix for the major, and not cross listed with the primary prefix for the major. Students who complete a 2nd major, a minor, or a minimum of 12 units in an approved Study Abroad program, automatically complete the Complementary Studies requirement and units may be double counted toward the major where applicable.

Other options for complementary studies are: 1) Foreign Language: 12 units in a single foreign language; or 2) Related Subjects: 12 units of course work in related disciplines with the approval of an Anthropology Department advisor. Related disciplines typically included courses in the College of Ethnic Studies, Classics, Geology, Geography, Sexuality Studies, Sociology, History, Language Studies, and Women and Gender Studies. Up to 6 units may be double counted in fulfillment of the University-wide elective units for the major. Units may be upper division, lower division, transfer or resident units.
